No mother should ever have to bury her child. It is an unnatural and heartbreaking experience that leaves a void that can never be filled.

In this collection of poems, a mother pours out her heart in the wake of the sudden death of her adult son. She writes of the overwhelming grief, the disbelief, the anger, and the guilt. She also writes of the love that she will always have for her son, and the memories that she will cherish.

These poems are a testament to the power of love and the resilience of the human spirit. They are a reminder that even in the darkest of times, we can find hope and healing.

Excerpt from the book:

In the Shadow of Grief

I walk through life in a shadow,

My heart heavy with grief,

The sudden loss of my son,

A wound that will never heal.

I see the world through tear-filled eyes,

The joy of others a cruel reminder,

Of what I have lost, what I can never regain,

My precious son, my heart's desire.

The pain is relentless, a constant ache,

That gnaws at my soul, day and night,

I long to hold him in my arms again,

To feel his laughter, his warm embrace.

But he is gone, and I am left alone,

With only memories to sustain me,

Memories that are both a comfort and a torment,

A bittersweet reminder of the love we shared.

I will never forget him, my beloved son,

His smile, his voice, his gentle touch,

He will always be with me, in my heart,

My guiding star, my beacon of hope.
