Understanding the Arabic Alphabet

The Arabic alphabet consists of 28 letters, each representing a distinct sound. These letters are written from right to left and can take different forms depending on their position within a word (initial, medial, or final).

The letters are divided into two main categories:

1. Consonants: 22 consonants are the foundation of Arabic words.
2. Vowels: 6 vowels are typically represented by diacritical marks placed above or below the consonant letters.

Levantine and Formal Arabic

Levantine Arabic refers to the spoken Arabic dialects commonly used in the Levant region, including Jordan, Lebanon, Syria, and Palestine. It is known for its distinct pronunciation and colloquialisms, which may differ from Formal Arabic.

Formal Arabic, on the other hand, is the standardized form of Arabic used in written and formal communication across the Arab world. It is based on Classical Arabic, the language of the Quran.
