

Tramp On The Line: The Epic Memoir of Two Hoboes

In the depths of the Great Depression, two young men, Jack Kerouac and Neal Cassady, set out on a journey that would change their lives forever. They hopped trains, hitchhiked, and slept under the stars, living the life of hoboes. Their experiences would later inspire Kerouac's classic novel, On the Road.

Tramp On The Line is the memoir of their travels, written by Cassady himself. It is a raw and honest account of their adventures, hardships, and the people they met along the way. Cassady's writing is vivid and engaging, and he brings the world of the hobo to life.

Tramp On The Line is more than just a travelogue. It is a social history of the Great Depression, and a portrait of the human spirit in the face of adversity. Cassady's story is a reminder that even in the darkest of times, there is always hope.

Review

"Tramp On The Line is a classic of American literature. It is a story of adventure, hardship, and humor, and offers a unique glimpse into a fascinating subculture. Cassady's writing is vivid and engaging, and he brings the world of the hobo to life. This is a must-read for anyone interested in the Great Depression, hobo culture, or simply great writing."
