Inside, you'll be amazed by the cathedral's soaring columns, which seem to reach for the heavens. The altar, designed by Gaudí himself, is a masterpiece of craftsmanship and symbolism.

Another must-see architectural wonder in Barcelona is Park Güell, a whimsical and enchanting public park designed by Gaudí. Built between 1900 and 1914, Park Güell was originally intended to be a residential development, but it was never completed.

Today, Park Güell is a UNESCO World Heritage Site and one of the most popular tourist attractions in Barcelona. Visitors are drawn to its colorful mosaics, whimsical structures, and panoramic views of the city.

No architectural tour of Barcelona would be complete without a visit to Casa Batlló, one of Gaudí's most famous works. This stunning apartment building, located on the famous Passeig de Gràcia, is a masterpiece of Art Nouveau architecture.

Casa Batlló is known for its vibrant facade, which is adorned with colorful mosaics and intricate wrought-iron balconies. The interior is equally impressive, with its vaulted ceilings, stained-glass windows, and Gaudí's signature organic forms.

La Rambla is Barcelona's most famous boulevard, stretching for 1.2 kilometers from Plaça de Catalunya to the Port Vell. This vibrant street is lined with shops, restaurants, and theaters, and it's always buzzing with activity.

As you walk along La Rambla, be sure to take in the architecture of the buildings that line the street. Many of these buildings are historic landmarks, and they offer a glimpse into Barcelona's rich past.

In addition to the iconic landmarks mentioned above, Barcelona is home to a wealth of other architectural wonders that are worth exploring. Here are a few more must-see destinations:

- Casa Milà: Another masterpiece by Gaudí, Casa Milà is also known as La Pedrera. This unique building is known for its undulating facade and its rooftop terrace, which offers stunning views of the city.
- Palau de la Música Catalana: This concert hall, designed by Lluís Domènech i Montaner, is a UNESCO World Heritage Site and one of the most important examples of Catalan Art Nouveau architecture.
- Santa Maria del Mar: This Gothic church, built in the 14th century, is known for its soaring columns and its beautiful stained-glass windows.
- Barcelona Museum of Contemporary Art (MACBA): This museum, housed in a former convent, is home to a collection of contemporary art from around the world.
